

Joris Laarman: No bones about his latest design creations

The progressive designer takes nature to the next level words — lori fredrickson

It's never been done where you can copy the way Joris Laarman says. Apparently, he's forgotten about furniture that's designed and constructed through a mimics the way bones grow.

Unlike most organisms, bone has a natural and inher as it generates new material while growing, it also lo material where it's unnecessary for support. This kin the inspiration for the new dynamic software platfor in his design, which was, interestingly, originally creat